Mrs. Snedeker's Book Review Proves A Literary Treat

One of the most delightful literary treats ever offered to the residents of Bay St. Louis was the book review given by Mrs. Caroline Dale Snedeker on Tuesday morning, under the auspices of the board members of the Hancock County Library.

Mrs. Snedeker, whose home is in Nantucket, Mass., has been spending the summer with her cousins, the Owen D. Crawford family, and plans to remain here during the winter months also. Her kindness in giving this review was greatly appreciated, as it is the first appearance of this sort that she has made since her recent release from the hospital, where she was confined for many months as the result of an automobile accident. The books discussed were "Towers in the Mist" and "A City of Bells," both by Elizabeth Goudge. Mrs. Snedeker, herself an authoress of note, and familiar with the locale of Miss Goudge's stories. introduced personal descriptions and anecdotes, including a personal letter from the authoress, which made the review doubly interesting to the audience. Great success has been achieved by Mrs. Snedeker in the field of children's literature. Most of her stories deal with facts from Greek and Roman history, and are used in many schools throughout the country as collateral reading material. One of Mrs. Snedeker's most charming books, "The Town of Fearless," is based on an interesting chapter in the history of her

Robert Owen, her great grandfather was the owner of a number of woolen mills in Scotland. Not at all satisfied with the labor conditions he embarked on a crusade of reform. He made models of his own mills and felt that his plan was successful. So, fired by ambition, he came to America, hoping here to affect the same reform. He chose New Harmony, Ind., as the site for his American mills, but due to unscrupulous followers, he lost his fortune and was forced to abandon his noble plan. Mrs. Snedeker has a rare gift of character delineation and description, which facts were shown, in her ability to point out subtle meanings and passages of special beauty in Miss Goudge's

There was a large and very appreciative audience present, among those noted were: Mrs. John Weston, Mrs. Harold Weston, Mrs. M. W. Briggs, Mrs. Carl Marshall, Miss Mae Edwards, Mrs. S. A. Power, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pitcher, Mrs. C. Weston, Mrs. S. A. Power, Mrs. C. C. MacDonald, Mrs. Herbert Van Horn, Mrs. A. T. Terry, Miss Louise Crawford, Miss Kathleen Renshaw, Mrs. Grady Perkins, Mrs. Fritz Perinich, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen D. Crawford and young son, Owen Jr., who recently left Bay St. Louis to reside in Nashville, Tenn., are, at present, staying at the home of Mrs. Crawford's sister, Mrs. John Trotwood Moore, whose lovely estate is on the outskirts of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford were not strangers to that city, as they lived there for nine years prior to their twenty-five year residence in the Bay, but young Owen, born and reared on the Coast, is deeply missing the hunting, fishing and swimming, which are so large a part of every boy's life here. However, it is hoped that the Crawford's will return, soon, to the Bay and to the many friends who count their departure as a personal loss.

Miss Ruth Perkins who underwent a surgical operation last week at Touro Infirmary in New Orleans, is reported improving steadily.

Miss Nettie Holleman, of Logtown, Miss., was hostess, on Wednesday, at one of the most delightful luncheon-bridge parties of the summer season. A large group of ladies from Bay St. Louis drove up for the affair. The guests included: Mesdames R. B. Deacon, R. Telihard, W. O. Sylvester, J. Joyner, J. Howze, W. S. Speer, E. Davis, S. Otis, B. Chase, Misses V. Telhiard, L. Davis, and B. Davis.

Bay Mercantile Co. Tentatively Planning to Build

Vinson Smith, Architect, Preparing Plans for Proposed Structure to Replace Fire Loss.

Vinson Smith, well-known Gulf Coast architect, who has considerable work to his credit in and about Bay St. Louis, is preparing plans for Henry W. Osoinach, proprietor of the Bay Mercantile Company, which place of business, on the beach, opposite Merchants Bank & Trust Co. building, was recently destroyed by fire.

The plans call for a one-story frame, faced on the outside with pressed iron imitating stone, to be painted over, while the interior will be lined with a somewhat similar material. The front will be full sheet of plate glass and the entire structure will not only be built with a view of making it fire-proof as much as possible and of the "slow-burning" type, as builders express it, but will conform with all principles of modern trend and make for attractive appearance, contributing to the business section of the city in more ways than one.

It is thought, with little revamping the same solid foundation will be used. However, the seawall is not considered of a condition that could be considered permanent or in a condition that would stand buffeting of wind and wave. But to meet this situation the rear of the store building will rest on a row of heavy piling, sunk to a depth far below sea level line. Mr. Osoinach stated, that in the event he did build, the contract would be let to the lowest bidder and that it would be expected all home labor would be employed. Architect Smith would supervise the construction in its entirety. A force of men have been at work cleaning the debris from the fire and getting everything in such shape as to avoid any possible delay. The proposed building, said Mr. Osoinach, would have to be finished and occupied in time for Christmas as his lease on the pres-

of December. Mr. Osoinach has purchased the John Osoinach homestead on the beach and has moved his family therein. The purchase was made for the purpose of providing a larger and more convenient home for his family.

St. Stanislaus to Begin Classes Thursday

St. Stanislaus College will throw open its doors for the new scholastic year next Thursday, September 8. Registration of day scholars will be Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Brother Peter will be in the office to receive prospective and old students during those three days. It is said that the enrollment of boarders has already surpassed last year's numbers by a good margin, and all bespeaks an excellent year for the local school. There has been an increase in the faculty. Two extra teachers have been assigned to the High School and one extra to the Grammar Grades.

The classrooms in the High School Department have been renovated; walls have been painted and desks renewed. Other places have been retouched and the appearance has been considerably improved.

Parents are urged to enroll their sons during the three days of the coming week, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Mrs. Edouard C. Carrere, who left here recently for a week's stay in Sheboygan, Wis., to welcome the return of her son-inlaw and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Labor has made tremendous progress in the United States since the first trade unions were formed. Much of the improvement in the lot of laborers is to be attributed to the power of their organizations. While mistakes have been made and excesses have occurred, as a general rule the labor movement in the United States has been beneficial, not only to those who labor, but to the nation as a whole.

The Sea Coast Echo endorses the idea of organization and the use of proper methods to secure improved working conditions and higher pay for labor. It does not approve any labor movement that proceeds upon the assumption that labor organizations have no responsibility to the nation, as a whole, or that adopts a leadership that attempts to blackjack the entire peointo paying tribute to any special class.

The basis advanced for the ban is that it that the regulation will hamper the use of trucks to transport their produce. This objection is met by the proposal to except trucks carrying milk and perishable foodstuffs from the restriction.

Whether such a ban is wise, or not, is a matter of opinion. Whether it will injure legitimate business interests remains to be seen the idea seems to be gaining ground and it might be well to consider it.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF MEN AND MATTERS IN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

WHAT WASHINGTON SAID.

(Atmore, Ala., Advance) NCE upon a time there was a candidate for Congress by the name of John Mercer who claimed that he had the backing of the President of the United States for election.\ Hearing of this, the President repudiated the assertion, and writing to Mr.

Mercer in explanation said: "The exercise of influence (if I really possess any) however remote would be highly improper; as the people ought to be entirely at liberty to choose whom they please to represent them in Congress. Having pursued this line of conduct steadily my surprise and consequent declaration can be a matter of no wonder."

Now Mr. Mercer, who claimed to have the influence of the President, was neither a New Dealer nor an anti-New Dealer. And the President who rebuked him for claiming Presidential support was not Franklin D. Roosevelt but George Washington. The difference between the views on political ethics between George Washington and Franklin D. Roosevelt are obvious. On the one hand we have Washington's denial that he even favored one candidate above the other. On the other

WHAT MYSTERY.

What mystery does the forest hold So rare and vague its charm? In summertime of Autumn's gold, A fairy woven form. Do ancient Druids haunt it yet, Chanting primeval rite; Is some old latar therein set, Lit by the pine"s green light? Do fairies flit in joy unseen, Laughing in moonbeam's dane; Do spirits here far earthward lean, Dreaming 'neath nature's glance, Do bygone lovers sweetly steal, In joy of other days. And all their romance fondly feel, Skipping in forest ways? Do angels swing God's censer bright, Adoring in the trees; Do birds sing long in rapture's flight, Thrilling Love's mysteries? We never can unravel quite, The lure, the charm, the life; Woodlands spread out blinding our sight, Where nature's running rife. RIXFORD J. LINCOLN.

The oldest battleship in the U. S. Navy is the Arkansas, commissioned in 1911, the youngest is the West Virginia, commissioned in 1921.

State College, Miss., August 1.-The cost of rat-proofing the corncrib is more than returned in property saved within the first year on the average farm. An unprotected crib is the social center and the food house for all the rats in the neighborhood. Within these storage places their numbers increase by 1.92 immigration and by the rearing of 2,25 young, and their depredations always extend beyond the corn in the crib. But in a rat-proof crib the corn is protected and the rats are far less likely to congregate in that 3.22 vicinity.

Of all the buildings on the average farm the corncrib is usually in greatest need of rat-proofing, and now is the time to build the rats out while the crib is empty and before 192 this year's crop is gathered. One of the cheapest methods where conditions are suitable is to place the .76 crib on posts that give a clearance underneath of at least thirty inches. The supporting posts are covered .20 with sheet metal, or are protected 44 at the top with metal discs extend-.04 ing at least nine inches out from the

WPA Shrinkage Expected

Mississippi WPA headquarters in Jackson today announced that employment on WPA projects in Mississippi has reached a new peak of 42,452 workers, but that a rapid rolls to pick the 1938 cotton crop. About 8,000 needy farm workers employment during the lay-by season. However, WPA plans have taken into account the private employment opportunities for cotton pickers which develop when the crop is ready for harvest. Several hundred workers have already left for the cotton fields in the Southern part of the state, it was said. Meanwhile applications and certificates for WPA are still being handled, so as not to deprive needy families of achance for assignment

NOTICE TO HOME OWNERS

M. E. TOULME

Home exemption applications must be filed.

The undersigned tax assessor now has on hand the official blanks for the use of home owners in making application for the home exemption as enacted by the 1938 extraordinary session of the Legislature. Every person who desires a home exemption must make application therefor, on the official blanks which have been prescribed and furnished by the State Tax Commission, as required by law. No home exemption can be allowed unless the application is made. Every person must, within the next few weeks, fill out the supplemental home exemption application even though the regular application has heretofore been made. Every person who has not made out any application whatever must now make the original application and the supplemental application and file both together with the tax

It is requested that every home owner bring with him or her the 1937 tax receipt which will show the assessment of the home for 1937 and the amount of the tax paid on the same. This information must be furnished, and your tax receipt is the most convenient way to get it. This office will render every assistance to the home owners and it is requested that you call as early as possible and file your application, which will then be submitted to the board of supervisors at a special meeting to be held in September, 1938.

If your application is not filed before that special meeting adjourns you cannot secure any home exemption for 1938. 1. The property must be a bona fide home.

2. It must be owned by a resident of this state. 3. It must be actually occupied by the owner. 4. It must be used exclusively as a home.

5. It must be occupied by a natural person, or persons the head of a family. Assuring you of my desire to serve you adeptably at all times, I am
